McKEE
BOTANICAL GARDEN

A Case For Your Support

McKee Jungle Gardens was the vision of land developers Arthur McKee and Waldo Sexton, who purchased the 80-acre tropical hammock in 1922 with the intention of cultivating citrus. The property's natural beauty was deemed too special in its native state to disturb so McKee and Sexton identified a new purpose for the land. In 1932, enhanced by the addition of ornamental and exotic plant specimens from around the world, in a lush landscape designed by William Lyman Phillips, McKee Jungle Gardens opened to become one of the top three tourist attractions in Florida. For the next forty years, the Garden's award-winning orchid collection, unusual fly-trapping pelican flowers and exotic wildlife captivated visitors.

As central Florida developed in the 1970s, attendance at the Gardens waned and the family-owned establishment was unable to compete with the lure of far bigger tourist attractions in central and south Florida. McKee Jungle Gardens closed in 1976 and was sold to condominium developers. All but 18 acres were developed. These 18 acres, once the heart of McKee Jungle Gardens, lay dormant for 20 years.

A group of community visionaries understood the imperative of preserving these 18-acres and in 1994, with the help of The Trust for Public Land, launched a fund-raising campaign to buy the land from the developer who was finalizing plans for a shopping center. With bare hands, basic tools and unimaginable heart, volunteers of every age cleared the trails to reveal once again the jungle's treasures. This community effort touched so many that even a young girl gave her weekly allowance to help rescue the Gardens. November 18, 2001 marked the formal dedication of the saved, restored and newly named McKee Botanical Garden.

Today, McKee Botanical Garden remains true to Arthur McKee and Waldo Sexton's vision. There are over 10,000 native and tropical plants to behold and one of Florida's largest and most celebrated collections of waterlilies.

More than just a destination for horticultural enthusiasts, McKee now hosts internationally renowned exhibits and annual signature events that inspire and delight visitors of all ages in addition to a wide variety of cultural and educational programs, with particular emphasis on exciting the wonder and imaginations of children.

Now a Florida Landmark and listed on the National Register of Historic places and recognized by the Garden Conservancy as a preservation project of national significance, McKee Botanical Garden is, as its founders envisioned, a wild place of natural beauty.

McKee has garnered national attention in publications such as Better Homes and Gardens, Coastal Living, House and Garden, Southern Living and The New York Times, and was named one of "22 Secret Gardens—Soothing Places of Surprise and Sanctuary in the U.S. and Canada" by National Geographic Traveler. In 2018, McKee was recognized by Coastal Living as "One of the Ten Most Romantic Places in Florida." ■

Since its reopening, members and visitors have supported this extraordinary Garden. Help ensure McKee thrives for generations to come.

For us, your assistance is more than JUST a name on a sign.

We see sponsorships as promotional tools that help us in raising money for our Garden while providing you with brand visibility, recognition for your generosity, and valuable marketing exposure to meet your business goals.

Choosing McKee Botanical Garden results in the formation of a relationship. As in any successful partnership, understanding each other's needs is a top priority. Working closely with you to create and carry out a strategic sponsorship program that will align with the objectives you have in mind for the sponsorships you choose is something we believe is essential to our success.

We put a lot of effort into creating connections and powerful marketing initiatives that would appeal to our corporate partners. For the money you put in us, we work hard to deliver sponsorship packages that surpass your needs.

In exchange, we ask that you help us in maintaining and improving a historic garden in a distinctive tropical setting for everyone's education, entertainment, and enrichment.

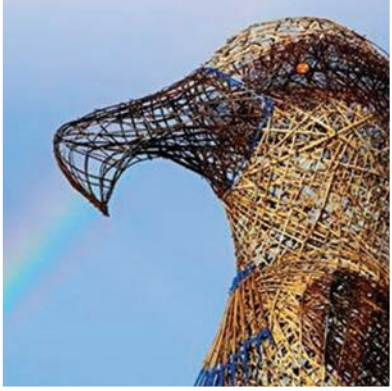

Annual Exhibits

For the past eighteen years, McKee has brought award-winning exhibits to the Garden that have educated, inspired, and enlightened everyone who comes. More than 115,000 visitors view the exhibits each year. Sponsorship opportunities offer our community partners many ways to participate and gain visibility in the local, state and national advertising placed for these events, as well as exhibit signage, McKee’s website, and in marketing pieces and publications to members.

This year, the Garden is excited to host A Tropical Flock of Avian Avatars by The Myth Makers, Donna Dodson & Andy Moerlien. The exhibit opens November 1, 2023 and will be on display through April 28, 2024. Ten magnificent and distinctive bird sculptures made of bamboo and mixed media that are environmentally friendly and enormous in scale will inspire all who encounter them in the Garden’s unique tropical setting. ■

“Since each of our beginnings, McKee Botanical Garden and our company have planted the seeds to nurture a commitment to philanthropy rooted in the belief that giving back goes hand in hand with growing stronger.” A historic icon in our community, the impact McKee has on Vero Beach transforms, enlightens, and inspires future generations. Why do businesses support McKee?

1. McKee Botanical Garden has laid the foundation for this historic landmark to evolve into a haven for biodiversity where ten thousand tropical plants thrive, internationally renowned exhibits excite, the Children’s Garden captivates, the Garden Café nourishes, and educational programs for adults and children abound, year-round.

2. Community Engagement. The Garden is aware that its function as a cultural and educational hub for Indian River County residents and visitors contributes significantly to the wellbeing of the community. The Garden also places a high importance on creating and maintaining the many connections it has made with people, businesses, and other organizations.

3. Our Experience. Our sponsors have learned through their own experience that the professionalism we display in partnering with them through our events is a positive reflection on the image of their businesses. We are proud of our partners who support us and choose to increase their involvement from year to year.

4. Our Effectiveness. Our sponsors have discovered that the professionalism we exhibit in our business dealings and at our events enhances their companys’ reputations as well. We are proud of our partners that help us and become more involved each year.

5. Our Connections. Our board members, volunteers, staff, and sponsors have developed enduring bonds via our association with the Garden for almost twenty-five years. Once established, your partnership with the McKee Botanical Garden family can develop in ways that benefit both your company and the Garden.

In-kind Sponsorships and Volunteerism

Teamwork is required for sponsorship. You are collaborating with McKee Botanical Garden to create a win-win relationship when you commit to a strategic sponsorship plan with us. While cash gives us the most flexibility in how to use your sponsorship, there are many additional ways to assist our activities and increase our bottom line.

Examine these possibilities:

1. Advertise. If your company's marketing strategy involves advertising and/or direct mail, include our event or activity. How? By including our logo in your advertising to show that you are our proud supporter; by donating a portion of your advertising contract to us; or by mentioning our event or activity in your current advertising. Help us raise awareness of the cause you've chosen to support.

2. Contribute Goods or Services. Our fundraising efforts and events come with actual costs. In-kind donations can be made in the form of: Catering, Rentals, Marketing, Postage, Printing, and Entertainment.

3. Volunteer. Volunteerism is essential to the success of all of our events and activities. Consider lending us some of your staff to help with events—the extra manpower will help carry out our operations and give your employees a chance to socialize with the community where you conduct business.

4. Give Away Prizes and Auction Goods. Through the donation of goods, there are numerous chances to increase revenue or lower expenses. Keep us in mind if your company's philanthropy or marketing includes donating goods.
